6. Three important decisions were made:

a. A military treaty was signed which permitted the Mongolian People's Republic to station troops freely in Inner Mongolia. Military bases were to be provided by the Inner Mongolian government for future use.

b. The organizational form of the Inner Mongolian government is to conform to that of the Mongolian People's Republic. Inner Mongolian officials must allow Outer Mongolian personnel take part in (advise?) the Inner Mongolian government.

c. The Inner Mongolian government must respect the relations between the mongolian People's Republic and Soviet Russia.

CONTRIBUTION LANGE

7. In an greement between the Mongolian People's Republic and the Inner Mongolian government made by Po-yen-man-tu and the head of the Mongolian People's Republic at Ulan Bator the Inner Mongolians requested the Outer Mongolians to station their troops in Inner Mongolia . This request was made for two reasons:

a. To prevent the invasion of Inner Mongolian territory by troops of other governments.

b. To prevent interference with the Inner Mongolian Independent government.
